

Modern Slavery Statement

Introduction

Deckers Group Ltd and subsidiaries (Deckers Hospitality Group Limited, Deckers Trading Limited, The Royal Toby Hotel (Castleton) Limited), takes its social responsibilities very seriously and conducts its business with integrity and transparency. We are committed to understanding more about modern slavery, human trafficking and labour exploitation and to improving our practices to ensure that modern slavery is not present in our business or supply chains.

Our Approach

In 2018 we adopted an educational based approach to manage risk in both our current and future workforce and our supply chain. Educating our UK based suppliers remains a priority for us due to the high number of suppliers based in the UK and the risks associated with exploitation of a migrant workforce.

In 2019 we reviewed our internal processes to ensure our actions to address risk were imbedded in our standard operating procedures. Progress was reported around each action to address risk and actions were expanded where possible.

In 2020 the Covid 19 pandemic disproportionately affected already vulnerable workers and increased the risk of exploitation and modern slavery. While our operations were closed, we continued to support our workforce with employment protection actions (furlough / sick pay / flexible working arrangements) and access to health care information and resources. We developed a supplier welfare questionnaire (based on our internal actions) which must be completed by suppliers on request. Responses will be categorised using a risk matrix and further action may be taken for suppliers considered high risk. Further action may include requirements for training and process changes, further auditing, or termination of agreement. If we identify any instances of modern slavery, we will immediately report this to the police.

Actions to Address Risk

As part of our initiative to address risk by education, the following actions have been taken:

- All current suppliers are required to conform with our Anti-Slavery and Human Trafficking Policy and Supplier Code of Conduct (non-conformance may result in supplier auditing or termination of agreement)
- As many of our suppliers are small businesses (with annual turnovers under the current modern slavery reporting threshold), our approach is to provide useful information to assist them to recognise modern slavery, human trafficking and exploitation and take action. All current and new suppliers are provided with an information pack (Stronger Together Resources)
- All employees are made aware of our commitment to combatting modern slavery and human trafficking
- Training our senior management team and employees involved in the procurement process
- Introduction of modern slavery awareness training during induction and periodic training for current employees

- Increasing awareness of modern slavery to our employees by providing information and resources available through the Stronger Together initiative
- Welfare questions and Stronger Together information provided during job interviews
- Evidence of right to work is required before job offers are made
- Salary (new & existing employees) can only be paid to bank account owned and controlled by employee

Further Steps to prevent Modern Slavery in our Business.

Where our actions identify cases of modern slavery, we will immediately report this to the police. The safety and wellbeing of potential victims is of paramount importance and we will respond accordingly.

In future statements we will continue to report progress against our actions to address risk and we will detail further steps we are planning to take.

We will conduct regular reviews of our processes including how we gather data and how we approach training and awareness activities to continually identify areas for improvement.
